ENGAGING COMMUNITY. IGNITING POTENTIAL.

The purpose of the learning circle series is to engage and activate caring leaders to serve and lead in the Fond du Lac area. Participants gain insight into practices based on the principles of servant leadership, dialogue, self-awareness, and strengths, along with skills needed for building a caring community. This learning series builds individual capacities through skill-building exercises and group dialogue to increase one's ability to serve and lead in organizations and across the community.

LEARNING SERIES CONTENT

The content for the Leadership Learning Circle has been compiled by the Sophia Foundation with the purpose of helping participants, organizations and communities engage in ways that are more caring, collaborative and possibility-oriented. Content for the program is based upon the writings and teachings of many authors including RK Greenleaf and Ann McGee-Cooper (Servant Leadership), Peter Senge (Systems Thinking), Peter Block (Community) and others.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

- Organization Professionals
- Emerging Leaders
- Community Builders
- Anyone interested in Leading and Serving Others

WHAT PARTICIPANTS HAVE SAID

"I found numerous ways to improve, especially on listening deeply, in both my professional and personal life. Reading Greenleaf's work was grounding. I especially appreciated getting to know the other participants and hearing how they were using and making sense of this material."

D Tschelscholak—UW Extension

"There is such value in having leadership development opportunities, such as the Leadership Learning Circle, in our community. Through the program I gained valuable skills and made new connections with other servant leaders that will continue."

K Schneider—Boys & Girls Club

"One word – hope. We live in a tough world that is changing every day, seriously I felt hope after each session. The hope and intention to continue doing the right things and support from others that feel the same way — meaning that we are here for each other (in community)."

K Galske—FDL Sherriff's Dept.
